INTRODUCTION

Standing orders are the written rules of a local council. Standing orders are essential to regulate the proceedings of a meeting. A council may also use standing orders to confirm or refer to various internal organisational and administrative arrangements. The standing orders of a council are not the same as the policies of a council but standing orders may refer to them.

Local councils operate within a wide statutory framework. It is not possible for the standing orders to contain or reference all the statutory or legal requirements which apply to local councils. For example, it is not practical for standing orders to document all obligations under data protection legislation. The statutory requirements to which a council is subject apply whether or not they are incorporated in a council's standing orders. Standing orders which cannot be altered as they are laid down in acts of parliament are printed in bold type.

Financial regulations are standing orders to regulate and control the financial affairs and accounting procedures of a local council. The financial regulations, as opposed to the standing orders of a council, include most of the requirements relevant to the council's Responsible Financial Officer.

For convenience, the word "councillor" is used in standing orders without being prescriptive in any way. Unless the context suggests otherwise, "councillor" includes a non-councillor with or without voting rights.

The text is from model documents prepared by NALC -the National Association of Local Councils – of which Horseheath Parish Council is a member.

This document was adopted at a Council meeting on 9th September 2019.

Part 4 Meetings and Chairing – Further Guidance

NOTE: In this part, “The Chair” means the person actually presiding at a meeting

1 BASIC PRINCIPLES

1.1 The Councillors and Clerk must act as the Council’s executive and carry out its decisions. They cannot do this properly unless they have instructions which they can understand.

1.2 It is the primary function of the Council to frame instructions upon which people can act. Even a decision to take no action is such an instruction.

1.3 The Council’s instructions are conveyed by resolutions and it is the purpose of the Council’s proceedings to reach without unreasonable delay, an intelligible and lawful decision for the right reasons. The duty of the Chair is to ensure that this purpose is achieved and to this end he must:-

- a protect the Council against outside interference;
- b ensure that everything to be discussed is lawful;
- c ensure that the Council is invited to deal with clear issues;
- d ensure that as far as possible information is complete;
- e permit every point of view to have a fair hearing;
- f ensure that opinions expressed are relevant to the matter in hand;
- g ensure that business is transacted with reasonable speed;
- h ensure as far as possible that proceedings are friendly and free from personalities;
- i co-operate with the officers and councillors.

2 THE AUTHORITY OF THE CHAIR

2.1. The office of Chair of a local authority is created by statute, which has conferred upon the occupant of the Chair a casting vote (a second vote in the event of a tie)

2.2 The authority of the Chair is limited to matters of procedure and neither increases nor decreases his right to discuss the merits of a particular case. It is one of his most difficult tasks to remember that while the Chair gives him authority on matters of procedure, it confers no rights (other than the casting vote) on matters of policy which are not possessed by other members.

3 BEFORE THE MEETING

3.1 Before any meeting the Chair should study the subjects for the agenda with the Clerk or any other officers and should in effect ask in respect of each item the following questions:-

What does it mean? Is it lawful? Do we know enough about it? Has any member special knowledge of this problem? Is there any member who may have a prejudicial interest?

4 OUTSIDE INTERFERENCE

4.1 No one is entitled to interrupt or obstruct the proceedings of the Council. In general it is best to stop an interruption at once before the habit spreads to the rest of the audience; and though he will naturally not wish to be rude, the Chair should cut an interrupter short, and if good humour and conciliation fail to produce silence he may have to warn him that he will be turned out if he does it again; if the warning is ignored it should be resolved, without discussion, that the interrupter be excluded, and if he fails to leave he should be removed by force. Care should be taken to use no more force than necessary. It is not essential to call the police, but may be necessary.

4.2 The Chair should never argue or allow argument with an interrupter. If the public becomes disorderly it may eventually be necessary to close the meeting or to adjourn to a more private place. It is, however, illegal to decide to exclude the public from any future meeting. The press is in a privileged position in as much as its representatives must so far as possible be given facilities for taking their reports.

4.3 The law requires that where a member has a personal interest in any matter he must disclose the existence and nature of that interest. If the personal interest is also prejudicial the member should withdraw from the room and take no further part in the relevant proceedings or seek to influence those proceedings. The Chair should before a meeting consider whether any member (including himself) may have any such interest, and may draw the individual member's attention to the possibility before it starts. However, ultimately it is for the member to decide whether or not to disclose any relevant interest. Failure to disclose an interest (personal or prejudicial) can lead to an investigation by the Standards Board

5 A CLEAR ISSUE

5.1 Every decision of the Council must be made by an affirmative vote of a majority of those present and voting. The members must, therefore, know exactly what they are being asked to decide and each proposition must be put to them in a form which can be answered by a simple "Yes" or "No". From this there follow certain practical consequences:-

a All motions should be affirmative in form; it is never necessary to move that a resolution be rejected;

b Where there is more than one solution to a problem each solution must be separately put to the vote.

5.2 The most exact method of putting a question to the vote is by the use of the following formula:- "The resolution is as follows:- e.g. 'That the Clerk's salary be raised to £5000 a year' The motion is that this resolution be agreed to."

(Note: A resolution is a proposal of the action intended to be taken: for example "That the Council buy a mower". A motion is the procedural formula by which the Council disposes of business: for example "The motion is that the resolution be amended by xxx" or "The motion is that the Council do now adjourn".)

6 METHOD OF VOTING

Every decision must be reached by a majority of those voting.

7 COMPLETENESS OF INFORMATION

Sensible decisions cannot be reached without reasonably complete information which it is usually the duty of the clerk to supply. The Chair should, before the meeting, consider whether enough information is available or likely to be made available, and at the meeting he should make a point of asking a member with special knowledge to give his opinion. If it appears at the meeting that information is still insufficient he should move to adjourn consideration until more is known, and sometimes it may be desirable to frame questions and to instruct the clerk to obtain the answers by a specified date.

8 IMPARTIALITY

When differences of opinion develop in discussion it is the duty of the Chair to give a fair hearing to all points of view including his own if he has one. It is not his duty as Chair to suppress his own convictions nor his privilege to impose his opinions. Experience has shown that the safest and least controversial course is for the Chair to call upon speakers for and against a proposal to speak alternately and himself to avoid speaking first or last.

9 SOME PROCEDURAL POINTS

Points of Order relate to procedure only and take precedence of all other business; it is the duty of the Chair to deal with them. If a point relates to the substance of a matter under discussion it is not a point of order and should be ruled out of order by the Chair.

The person raising the matter of substance in this way should be told to save it for his speech on the business. For instance, if the provision of a swimming pool is being discussed and someone interrupts the speaker by saying "On a point of order, can we afford it?" the interruption should be ruled out of order because this is not a procedural question. It is part of the merits of the business and must therefore be decided by discussion. The person interrupted may of course answer the point when he continues his speech or ignore it as he thinks appropriate. If, however, the interruption had been "On a point of order, have we power to do this?" the Chair (in consultation with the clerk) must give a ruling, because if the answer is "No", the Council has no power to act as proposed and the business ought not to be under discussion.

10 USE OF THE CHAIR'S VOTES

10.1 Save on one occasion, the Chair has both an ordinary and a casting vote. There is no rule of law which requires him to give his ordinary vote at the same time as the other members are voting, but it is obviously undesirable and undignified for him to wait and then say "the voting is 5 to 4 against; I therefore vote in favour which makes it even."

10.2 Where there is an equality of votes the Chair may be faced with an embarrassing problem. A resolution requires a majority and therefore, since an equality is not majority, he may declare the resolution not carried. This course is, however, sometimes regarded as irresponsible or lacking in courage; in such circumstances the Chair ought to give a casting vote, if at all possible, in such a way that the matter can be considered again; for instance, on a motion to accept a particular tender a vote in favour will conclude the matter, but a vote against will leave the way open for further negotiations or reconsideration.

11 PRESENCE OF THE PUBLIC AND PRESS

In principle, the public (which includes the press) is entitled to be present at all meetings of the Council. The Council, however, may exclude the public for a particular item of business, if it is reasonably of the opinion that such exclusion is in the public interest. Where the public and press have been excluded, the decisions made in the closed session must be minuted: a record should be kept of who was present at the session: the press should be told of any decision. Business is 'confidential' if its discussion must be kept secret: it is 'special' and the reasons for secrecy must be stated in any case where the need for secrecy is not obvious.

12 PUBLIC PARTICIPATION

The public cannot, of course, take part in the proceedings of the Council, but an increasing number of Councils have created and sustained public interest in their work by arranging for a short period in meetings (say 20 to 30 minutes) when members of the public are permitted to put questions to the Council or to make observations. Such periods can be either during the meeting (by adjournment) or at its end.

13 MALADMINISTRATION

Local Councils are not subject to the jurisdiction of the Local Ombudsman. There is therefore no outside body which can adjudicate on complaints about the procedures of a Local Council if the law has not been broken. It is, however, important for the good name of the Council that complaints be handled properly and fairly. The National Association has therefore published National Circular 2/86 Code of Practice in Handling Complaints, which recommends a standard and formal procedure to all Councils. In light of the Local Government Act 2000, Councils are recommended to agree a form of complaint procedure for matters falling outside the jurisdiction of the Standards Board with their Standards Committee.

13 LENGTH OF MEETINGS

Experience suggests that a meeting should not be allowed to continue for more than two hours without a break.
